

Diamondback Terrapins: Living on the Edge

"In nature there are neither rewards nor punishments; there are consequences."

Robert Green Ingersoll
(1833-1899)

You are an adult female diamondback terrapin and it is nesting season. You will travel from the creek where you normally live to an island where you nest each summer. Along the way you will meet many challenges. Can you safely make it there and back home again?

Instructions

(2-4 players)

Each player should roll the die. The person that rolls the highest number goes first, followed by the player to their right. The first player to make it to the nesting beach wins.
